The California Public-Safety Radio Association, Inc.

The Southern California Chapter of APCO International

About The California Public-Safety Radio Association, Inc.

The California Public-Safety Radio Association (hereinafter referred to as CPRA) was originally founded in 1935 as a statewide group called the California Police Radio Association. Because California is so large, it was decided in 1941 to divide the state between North and South. A line was drawn from east to west through Fresno. The group to the north of Fresno was known as the Northern California Police Communication Officers. This group is now known as the Northern California Association of Public-Safety Communications Officials or NAPCO. The area south of Fresno was at first known as the California Police Communication Officers but shortly afterward the Southern California group changed the name back to the original California Police Radio Association (CPRA). On April 1, 1945, CPRA became a chartered chapter of the then Associated Police Communications Officers (APCO). In 1953 the CPRA Chapter, in order to better reflect its membership, changed its name to the California Public-Safety Radio Association. In 1956, the Association followed suit and changed its name to the Association of Public-Safety Communications Officials (hereinafter referred to as APCO). Since it was a separate organization when it joined APCO in 1945, the name CPRA was allowed to be grandfathered. All other present and future chapters are now required to use APCO in their chapter names.

Today, the CPRA Chapter of APCO is made up of over 500 local volunteer public safety professionals from Police, Fire, EMS, 9-1-1, State/Local Government, Tribal, Military, Forestry, Highway and Conservation services who volunteer their time and expertise for the betterment of public safety communications. It represents more than 250 Public Safety agencies and 9-1-1 Public Safety Answering Points (PSAPs) who serve over 23 million people throughout Southern California. Our Corporate members, who provide products or services to public safety, also support and participate in many of the activities of the Chapter. The CPRA Chapter of APCO meets monthly in various Southern California locations.

The CPRA Chapter of APCO is an all-volunteer 501(c)(3) non-profit charitable organization which provides its members with Operational and Technical education and training, discusses the current critical issues affecting Public Safety and 9-1-1 PSAPs, disseminates the latest information on emerging technologies including Next Gen 9-1-1 and FirstNet, reports on FCC Regulatory notices and actions, conducts monthly Frequency Coordination meetings, advises on the current activities at APCO International, and provides an opportunity for networking with peers. Additionally, CPRA holds special events throughout the year, including: an Annual Telecommunicators Awards Banquet in April that recognizes the top 9-1-1 practitioners in Southern California; an Annual Engineering & Technologist Awards Program in April that recognizes excellence in technical support; and an Annual Vendor Showcase & Training event in October that displays the latest equipment and services for Public Safety. The CPRA Chapter also publishes a monthly Chapter member newsletter, called "The CommLink", which is available on the Chapter website.

MISSION:

APCO is an international leader committed to providing complete public safety communications expertise, professional development, technical assistance, advocacy and outreach to benefit our members and the public.

VISION:

APCO commits to strengthen our communities by empowering and educating public safety communications professionals.

On behalf of the executive committee and the general membership, I want to welcome you to the 2021 California Public-Safety Radio Association (CPRA) annual report. In this report, you will find a synopsis of Association activities that took place throughout the year.

During the beginning of the year the CPRA organization utilized the Zoom virtual platform as the world continued to battle the COVID-19 pandemic allowing the CPRA organization to continue its mission enhancing Public Safety Communications for a better tomorrow. These meetings enabled our Commercial Members to showcase their solutions for free during these unprecedented times. This year, members of the executive board were unable to attend multiple meetings and events including the Western Regional Conference due to the COVID pandemic.

In the Month of May, CPRA supported The Southern California Radio Rodeo – CommEX exercise held in Orange and Riverside Counties. CPRA provided breakfast for the entire event held at three different sites with 115 participants from 26 different agencies and organizations.

In the Month of April, we celebrated the National Telecommunicators Week honoring those who dedicate their lives to serving the public. The entire event was posted on the CPRA website for nominees and the awards presentation. Most agencies held their own parties and lunch events during the virtual awards presentation.

APCO International Conference was held in San Antonio Texas in August. The Executive Committee had five members attend and represent the chapter. They networked and attended Chapter/CCAM training. There was also time for a joint dinner with CPRA and NAPCO. These types of events strengthen our relationships as a local organization within the framework of a national organization.

The NAPCO CPRA Vendor Showcase held in October was a huge success, both in attendance numbers and vendor support. We hosted a variety of Public Safety training throughout the event.

We finished the year with an Officer Installation Dinner held outside the Mayor of Riverside's office at the Grier Pavilion. With about 100 registered guests, we had a great night. With the help of our commercial sponsors and registration fees, the Chapter was able to put on an amazing dinner event with live entertainment, guest speakers, and a DJ.

2021 has been a challenging year and I am proud of our Executive Committee and Chapter members resiliency during these unprecedented times. Thanks to our Executive leadership, our expenses this year are in good standings thanks to our commercial sponsorships and annual fund-raising events. I am grateful that the CPRA Chapter can overcome and thrive in an extended unprecedented period.

Thank you,

David Duenas
CPRA President
